DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 6/17/2010 has been entered.

The Amendment filed 6/17/10 has been received, entered into the record, and carefully considered. The following information provided in the amendment affects the instant application by:

Claim 2 has been amended.

Claims 1, 3-14, and 18-21 stand as being canceled.

Claim 22 has been withdrawn.

Remarks drawn to rejections of Office Action mailed 3/22/10 include:

102(b) rejection: which has been overcome by applicant's amendments as applicants have deleted the species which anticipated the genus claimed, and has been withdrawn.

103(a) rejection: which has been overcome by applicant's amendments and has been withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 2 and 15-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hewett et al. "Cytokinins in Populus x robusta", Planta (1973) 114(2), 119-29.

Hewett discloses 6-(2-hydroxybenzylamino)purine riboside. See abstract. Likewise, the compounds are taught to be used in compositions (see examples). The intended use is not seen to make patentable the composition claims as the prior art's compositions could have functioned in the same way as the instant compositions, as they contain the same claimed amount of the same claimed agents, and thus are seen to be the same. While the examiner has made an effort to indicate all of the species which are contained in the reference and anticipate the instant claims, it is noted that "A generic claim cannot be allowed to an applicant if the prior art discloses a species falling within the claimed genus." The species in that case will anticipate the genus. In re Slayter, 276 F.2d 408, 411, 125 USPQ 345, 347 (CCPA 1960); In re Gosteli, 872 F.2d 1008, 10 USPQ2d 1614 (Fed. Cir. 1989). As such, applicants are encouraged to review the document in its entirety to remove all species in their claims which are disclosed in the reference.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 2 and 15-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hewett et al. "Cytokinins in Populus x robusta", Planta (1973) 114(2), 119-29 as set forth supra.

Hewett discloses 6-(2-hydroxybenzylamino)purine riboside as noted supra. It is noted, as set forth in previous office actions, that it is well settled that compounds that differ only as positional isomers are not deemed patentably distinct absent evidence of superior, unexpected results. See In re Crounse 150 USPQ 554; Ex parte Engelhardt 208 USPQ 343 regarding position isomerism. As such, 6-(3-hydroxybenzylamino) purine riboside and 6-(4-hydroxybenzylamino) purine riboside are seen to be obvious variants of 6-(2-hydroxybenzylamino) purine riboside, as they are positional isomers thereof.
